SULFUR AND MOLASSES.

Here the bluish leaves the briars Of the orange-scented South; Ere a green frog in the mire Leads a concert with his mouth; Ere the birth of buds and grasses, Ere the naked fields are sown; Then it's sulfur and molasses In a liberal-bottomed spoon.

Even chubby baby brother Takes his dose without a fuss; Even pa and even mother Take it to encourage you; So the brimstone pudding passes, And for youngsters it's a boon, Is that sulfur and molasses In a liberal-bottomed spoon.

Every healthful smiling dimple That a youngster ever had Is a danger signed dimple That may turn to something bad. 'Tis your blood expelling gases, And you need a cleanser soon; And it's sulfur and molasses In a liberal-bottomed spoon.

The present Administration in Kentucky serves notice that no more money men or corporations are wanted in this state. The idea seems to prevail in the legislative and executive mind that a population of poor people is more essential to a state's prosperity than a population of people with money to spend.

The LEADER is perfectly aware that the law providing for Auditor's Agents is not a new thing; and it is also aware of the fact that Auditor Stoves refused to appoint an official of that sort for Mason county, satisfied that the county officials had done their work so well that there was no need for an "inquisition" into their affairs.

Those eminent citizens who occupy the street corners all day long are not, as a rule, the men who build factories and employ labor, but if Kentucky continues to encourage the "tax spies," that will soon be about the only sort of population left with anything the man who owns a house and can't move it out of the state.

WHENEVER a man lays down on a railroad track—where he has no right to be—and goes to sleep, and a train kills him, suit for heavy damages is at once brought against the railway company. Whenever a man travels on a steamboat—where he has a perfect right to be—and falls overboard and drowns, suit is not brought against the steamboat owners for damages. Can you tell why this is so?

A MAN who does not live to learn, a man who has no courage to reverse a position once taken, is not fit to lead the American people in any time or upon any occasion. Inconsistency with this counts for nothing. What the people condemn, what they do not forgive, is an inconsistency between the acts and utterances of a man; the inconsistency that proclaims faith in one policy and repudiates that faith by actions in another direction.

THE LEADER's esteemed contemporary laborers hard in defense of the "Auditor's Agents" who are just now so vigorously at work "sipping" into the tax lists of Mason county, seemingly forgetting that its defense of them is a condemnation of the Democratic administration of affairs in this county. By its own argument it reflects upon the County Assessor, who is a Democrat, and virtually charges for its had made the proper investigation and report, there would have been nothing left for the Auditor's Agent or the "Tax Inspector" to do.

THE LEADER does not join in this pursuit, believing that the County Assessor and the Board of Equalization of Mason county have done their work as well and as thoroughly as it has been done in any other county in the state.

Why not sue the promoters of the C. and O. Railway for daring to enter Kentucky with their millions of capital?

The title of the play "Private John Allen" which is making money for Charles B. Hanford in the South this season has been the cause of some comment in political circles. Mr. Hanford has taken occasion to give a full instance to point out the fact that the Private John Allen who has made so enviable a position for himself in Congress halls from Tuspe, Missisippi while his character in the play is from Caddo Parish, Louisiana. As to whether Lee Arthur, the author, has "plagiarized from real life" in drawing the character, Mr. Hanford leaves his audiences to decide. Will be at Opera-house Monday, March 26th.

BRYAN'S INTRODUCTION.

How "the Peerless" Was Presented to a Nebraska Audience.

Orested World. "That story that Senator Towne told on 'W. J. Bryan the other day reminds me of one that Mr. Bryan told in a company where I was a guest," said Representative Dave Mercer. "Shortly after Bryan had arrived in Lincoln and began the practice of law it got noticed about that he was a good speaker, and he was somewhat in demand in the small places.

"One night he was asked to speak at a schoolhouse fifteen miles from Lincoln. He drove over. The night was bitterly cold, and Bryan hastened to the stage where he was a good speaker, and he was somewhat in demand in the small places. "Now, I'll tell you what I want you to do, said Mr. Bryan to the Chairman, after they had exchanged greetings. 'I have driven fifteen miles to talk for your people. Of course, I do not expect any fee, but when you introduce me I wish you would say: 'Ladies and gentlemen—my wife will now be addressed by Mr. W. J. Bryan, the rising young attorney of Lincoln.' I think the little advertisement I shall get is no more than my due."

THE COMMONWEALTH.

MINERS GATHERING.

They Are Assembling at Pineville to Avenge the Murder of One of Their Companions.

Pineville, Ky., March 18.—J. F. McCoy, deputy sheriff of this county, shot and killed French Howard, a miner, here Saturday night. Testimony before the coroner's jury of four men, Taylor, Howard and Howard on the night passenger train from Middleboro. As the train neared this place McCoy, who was drunk, struck Howard with a pistol, Howard drew his revolver. McCoy knocked it out of his hand and shot him, killing him instantly. McCoy surrendered to the authorities, who hid him in the mountains until Sunday, when he was placed in jail.

As soon as it became known that young Howard had been killed the miners were soon coming in from all the surrounding mines. They paroled the streets the rest of the night in search of McCoy. Twenty-five or 30 of them went to his house and searched the house. A mass meeting was held Sunday afternoon, about 300 miners participating. What they desired was to see McCoy by any one outside of the members of the miners union. Howard was highly respected by all who knew him. The jail is guarded by a force of four parties. Not a miner can be seen on the streets Sunday night, and it is feared that they are organizing a mob and an attack on the jail is expected.
